SUSTAINING THE LEGACY

Annual Report 2015 - 2016
Shehu Musa Yar’Adua Foundation
www.yaraduafoundation.org
The Yar’Adua Foundation was established by the friends, family and associates of Shehu Yar’Adua to inspire Nigeria’s future generations with his legacy of service.

OUR VISION

A Nigeria united across ethnic and religious divides, committed to justice and democracy.

OUR MISSION

To promote national unity, good governance and social justice by creating platforms to engage citizens, policy makers and stakeholders in national conversations that foster an inclusive and prosperous Nigeria.
Director General’s Statement

I am pleased to convey the Foundation’s sincere appreciation for the support and encouragement from friends, stakeholders and international development partners over the past two years.

In 2015, our Public Policy Initiative was at the forefront of promoting transparency and accountability in Nigeria’s elections through the adoption of new media technologies to address some of the unique challenges of our election process. CASE 2015 provided a collaborative incident reporting platform for civil society organizations observing elections, INEC and the Office of the National Security Adviser Crisis Center.

CASE 2015 technology has subsequently been transitioned to enable accountability in other governance processes. Justice Report, developed in partnership with the Presidential Advisory Council against Corruption and the Nigerian Bar Association, will assist in tracking retail corruption and misconduct in the judicial system.

Nowhere To Run: Nigeria’s Climate and Environmental Crisis highlights environmental threats to human and food security in Nigeria. The documentary won five awards, including the prestigious 2016 Africa International Film Festival Award. The Foundation’s climate advocacy has raised the profile of national and international discourse on the impact of climate change in Nigeria, drawing crucial attention to the need for an immediate policy response to a challenge that is now a crisis for many of our communities.

As the Foundation approaches its 20th anniversary, we are excited about the opportunity to focus our work on creating platforms for citizen engagement in conversations that foster national unity, good governance and social justice.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Jacqueline Farris

CLIMATE ADVOCACY

A lack of awareness and understanding is hampering effective policy and process response to the impacts of climate change. Stakeholders with responsibility to confront the challenge are either unaware of the scale of the problem or unable to make connections between growing food insecurity and the creeping effects of climate change.

To address this problem, the Public Policy Initiative embarked on an advocacy campaign with the following objectives:

- To raise awareness of the impact of climate change in Nigeria, particularly as it relates to food and human security.
- To provide forums for citizens and community groups to engage government officials and policy makers on the impacts of climate change.
- To explore viable solutions for mitigation and adaptation in Nigeria.
- To establish partnerships with academic institutions and community groups working to address these challenges.

The campaign featured a series of activities designed to engage citizens, policy makers, and other stakeholders about the impact of climate change and the need for immediate policy response to the issue:

JUSTICE REPORT

The Yar’Adua Foundation, in an effort to encourage the adoption of new media technologies to promote good governance and citizen engagement, has developed an electronic platform for tracking incidents of retail corruption in the administration of criminal justice in Nigeria.

Justice Report includes an incident management system that allows administrators and backend operators to track and update the status of reported incidents until they are resolved or closed.

Deliberate delay of court processes
Non-execution of orders
Denial of bail
Lack of responsiveness from lawyers
Extortion
Subversion of extant processes

Objectives:
- Establish a system to receive and process reports of retail corruption in criminal justice administration in Nigeria
- Provide user-friendly tools/channels to lawyers, court users and judiciary support staff to report instances of corruption they encounter
- Encourage demand-driven accountability and transparency in the administration of criminal justice in Nigeria

Partnership with the NBA

The Foundation is working with the Nigerian Bar Association to deploy and operate the Justice Report platform. The NBA will operate and manage the platform and promote its adoption by NBA members nationwide.

The Foundation will provide training and support for the NBA to enhance its capacity to manage the platform.

Funding

The Foundation received a two-year grant of $350,000 from the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation to support the development of CASE 2015. Virement of the unspent balance was approved to support repurposing the CASE platform into a tool for fighting corruption in the administration of criminal justice in Nigeria.

CASE 2015

Improving transparency and openness in Nigerian elections through the collaborative use of technology

The Content Aggregation System for Elections (CASE 2015) is a technology-enabled, multi-stakeholder election observation system designed to improve the scope and detail of information available to civil society and citizen stakeholders during and beyond elections.

CASE is comprised of a social media aggregation software (Aggie), a platform for aggregating and analyzing traditional observer reports (ELMO) and a mobile app for sending reports. The incident management process created an important connection between unverified social media reports and trusted observers deployed in the field.

Support for CASE 2015 was generously provided by the John D. and Catherine T. MacArthur Foundation, Open Society Initiative for West Africa (OSIWA), the UK Department for International Development (DFID) and the Canadian Fund for Local Initiatives (CFLI).

Shehu Musa Yar’Adua: Profile

Born in Katsina on March 5, 1943 to the late Mutawallin Katsina, Mallam Musa Yar’Adua, young Shehu was greatly influenced by his father’s strength of character and capacity for leadership. A member of the Katsina Emirate Council, Mallam Musa Yar’Adua was one of the leading lights of Nigerian political development and a pillar of political wisdom. During the First Republic, Mutawalli served as a Member of the House of Representatives, Federal Minister for Establishment, Nigerianisation and Training and later as Minister for Lagos Affairs.

Shehu Yar’Adua was educated at Katsina Provincial Secondary School and the Royal Military Academy, Sandhurst, U.K. He returned from Sandhurst in 1964 as a young Second Lieutenant not long before the Nigerian Civil War broke out. Major Yar’Adua’s capture of Onitsha in 1967 is regarded as the decisive battle that lead to the end of the bloody conflict that consumed millions of lives.

The Civil War had a tremendous impact on Lt. Col. Shehu Yar’Adua. Disheartened by the devastation he witnessed, he recognised the futility of disunity based on ethnicity, region or religion and understood that a united Nigeria was prerequisite for the nation’s growth and development.

Colonel Shehu Yar’Adua served as Federal Commissioner of Transport in 1976. As Commissioner, he was credited with establishing a blueprint for the development of Nigeria’s transport sector as well as the reorganisation and decongestion of the nation’s ports. Upon the assassination of the revered Head of State, Murtala Mohammed in 1977, Shehu Yar’Adua was named Chief of Staff, Supreme Headquarters State, Murtala Mohammed in 1977, Shehu Yar’Adua was named Chief of Staff, Supreme Headquarters and promoted to Major-General in the Obasanjo administration. At just 36 years of age, he was the youngest officer to hold that rank on the entire Continent.

Among many accomplishments, perhaps most significant was the Administration’s successful conduct of elections and historic hand over to democratic rule in 1979. As the first military government to voluntarily hand over power in Africa, General Obasanjo and General Yar’Adua knew that enthronement of democracy was the only way to ensure stability and social harmony in the country.

Upon retirement, Yar’Adua joined the business world with a view to providing important private sector services with partners and investors. He established a publishing company, cultivated agricultural holdings, developed manufacturing, oil service and shipping facilities and incorporated Habib Nigeria Bank. He established the Islam in Africa Organisation and served as Chairman of the National Mosque Committee where he oversaw the funding and building of the National Mosque, Abuja.

In April 1987 he was honoured turbaned Tafidan Katsina, a traditional title he inherited from his father.

But the return of a military regime without a commitment to handing over to a democratically elected government led General Yar’Adua to join politics. He was prepared to lead the political class through the familiar antics and obstacles set by his former colleagues in uniform.

Shehu Yar’Adua was a gifted politician. His grassroots politics were void of ethnic bias and religious or regional sentiment. His organisation, whether PF or SDP or PDM, dominated the political landscape, breaking what he dubbed the “siege mentality” that had dogged Nigerian politics since 1914.

His aspiration for the SDP Presidential ticket was inspired by a desire to give the nation the committed and responsible leadership it so desperately desired and deserved. He advocated a new National Purpose designed to enrich lives, inspire patriotic pride and serve the common good.

As Presidential candidate, Yar’Adua continued to break barriers, beating formidable opponents and winning elections across the nation to become his party’s nominee. Just when he was poised to win the party’s presidential nomination, his election was annulled and he was banned from further participation.

Without bitterness or rancour, Shehu Yar’Adua devoted himself to playing the role of advisor, mentor and counsellor through new rounds of elections. He continued to steer the country toward democracy as the single most influential politician in the country.

Always a courageous leader, Yar’Adua stood in the forefront of those who demanded a timely hand over to democratically elected government. Those who sought to perpetuate themselves in power plotted to imprison him and others in order to remove obstacles that stood in their path.

Even when his death sentence was passed, Shehu Yar’Adua’s spirit and determination were not broken. From Kirikiri Prison in 1995, he wrote, “Don’t worry too much about me. It is the sacrifice some of us must make for our country to be free.” Shehu Musa Yar’Adua died two and a half years later in Abakaliki Prison. The country lost a gentleman and a hero, but the structures he built could not be destroyed. The democracy we now enjoy is testimony to his courage and leadership. It is his courage and his leadership that we continue to celebrate today.
